September 13th - 14th, Olympia, London

Transport Security Expo is an international event that brings focus and clarity to the immense task of monitoring, policing, and providing employee and user security to the world of public transportation. This includes the movement of citizens as well as commercial supply chain networks which must be protected from acts of terrorism and criminal activity. This yearly event examines the dynamic and continually evolving threats faced by transportation and the movement of commercial goods within the European region and provides solutions. This unique event gathers the world's leading experts from the areas of aviation, air cargo, maritime, and supply chain security. It also attracts government officials, the military, private and corporate security, law enforcement, and industry personnel to discuss countermeasures to all such threats, real and imagined.
